have lived in the house we now live in twenty-one years last May. At the time of the murders Lizzie was possessed of property as follows: $170 in the B. M. C. Durfee Safe Deposit and Trust Company, $2,000 in the Massoit National Bank, $500 in the Union Savings Bank, $141 in the Fall River Five-cents Savings Bank, two shares of Fall River National Bank stock, four | motive has been proved, and that the crimshares of the Merchants' Manufacturing Company, five shares of the same of another date. My father wore a ring on his finger. It was given him by Lizzie." She had worn it herself before, he constantly | Providence thinks the Commonwealth has after, and it was buried with him. I have an inventory of the clothes in the closet on the afternoon it was searched. I was there when the search was going on."

Witness was asked what Dr. Dolan said in regard to a thorough search. She re-plied: "The Doctor said the search had been as thorough as it could be unless the paper was torn from the walls or the carpets taken up. The Bedford cord dress was made the first week in May at our home. It was a very cheap dress-124 or 15 cents a yard, and about eight or nine yards in it, plainly trimmed. Not more than two days were used in making the dress. Lizzie and I assisted, as we always did. The painters began work after the dress was made. Lizzie got some paint on the dress within two weeks after it was made. She got the paint on the front breadth and on the side. That dress was hanging in the front closet on the day I came home. I know, because I went in to hang up a dress and found there was no nail.'

Question-Did you say anything to Liz-zie about that dress because there was no nail there?

Answer-I did. I said, you have not destroyed that old dress yet; why don't you do so? It was very dirty, badly faded, and I don't remember having seen her use it for some time. It could not have been made over, because, besides being badly soiled, the material and color was such as to ren-der it impossible."

Continuing, Miss Emma said: "The next I saw of the Bedford dress I was in the kitchen on Saturday, when I heard my sister's voice. I looked around and saw her with the dress on her arm. She said: 'I'm going to burn this old dress, and I said: 'I would,' or 'Why don't you!' and turned away. I did no see her burn the dress. Miss Russell was there at the time. She told Mr. Hansom a falsehood, and I asked her what that was for. She said he asked her if all the dresses were in the house that were there at the time of the murder and she said yes. Then it was decided between us all that she should go and tell Mr. Hansom | sults: she had told a falsehood. My sister said, at the time, 'Why did not you tell him about it; why did you let me do it?' DID NOT QUARREL WITH HER SISTER.

"I remember the story about the quarrel between sister and myself. I never had any such conversation with my sister as was reported. There was never any trouble or quarrel in the matron's room between us while she was there, or anything that could be construed into a quarrel. Lizzie never did put up her finger and say anything about giving in." Witness contended that the relations between Lizzie and Mrs. Borden were entirely cordial. Witness said that the breach caused by the giving of the property to her stepmother was never healed, as far as she was concerned, although it was on Lizzie's part. She knew of no enemy her stepmother had in the world.

The dressmaker who made the famous paint-stained dress next awore that Lizzie could not have worn the pink wrapper over it to conceal the blood spots had there been any. Said the witness: "The skirt was longer by half a finger length than she had been in the habit of wearing. It was a cheap cotton dress. The painters were painting the house when Lizzie was wearing the dress; she put it on as soon as it was done. I saw the dress after it was 'painted.' The paint was on the front and back. She had an old wrapper which this was to take the place of. She cut some pieces out of the old wrapper while I was there, and took it down stairs. Phobe B. M. Bowman, wife of Dr. Bowman, was the next witness. She was called into the house right after the alarm was given, and found Mrs. Churchill was fanning Lizzie. She thought Lizzie had fainted. Her fips and chin were quivering. She was asked about the blue waist that has been in evidence all along. "I should say it was the waist," she said. She was not sure about the skirt. District Attorney Knowlton wanted to Bingham is about as tall as Lizzie. Miss Anna White, the official stenographer in the court at Fall river, testified that certain things had been testified to at the first hearing.

It was just 3:15 P. M. when ex-Governor Robinson said, "The delense rests," Mr. Moody asked for fifteen minutes to prepare a rebuttal, which the court granted. At 3:45 o'clock the jury returned to the court Marshal Hillard was the first witness called in rebuttal. He was asked as to the quarrel in the matron's room. He said: "I saw Mrs. Reagan about it. Mrs. Reagan and the Reverend Back entered the office. She handed me the paper and said she was willing to sign it. I said to her: If you do so, you do so in direct violation of my orders. I told her if she had anything to say she had better say it in court.' Then policeman Mullaly, who testified that the missing handle of the hatchet had been found, was asked if he had received any information from Hyman Rubernski. He said he had. That ended the evidence for the day and all of it, in fact, except that of a boy in Fall River, who, on Monday morning, will testify regarding the two boys, Brown and Barlow, who were on the stand vesterday.

The court and counsel held a consultation before adjournment. At its conciusion Justice Mason addressed the jurors, telling them not to form an opinion until they had heard the whole case. Then an adjournment was had until Monday moruing, at 9 o'clock. The boys, Brown and Barlow were outside the courthouse this afternoon, complaining bitterly of the treatment the boys were subjected to last night by members of the Fall River police force. When the boys had testified yesterday, so they say, they were locked in a room in the courthouse, and there detective Shaw tried to find out how they came to appear as witnesses, and then, as they allege, he tried to intimidate them.

VIEWS OF CRIMINAL LAWYERS.

Almost Unanimous in the Belief that the Evidence Is Insufficient to Convict. NEW YORK, June 16.-Instructions were sent by telegraph yesterday to the Herald correspondents in many of the large cities of the country to interview leading criminal lawyers on the evidence presented by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in Its case against Lizzie Borden, accused of the murder of her father and stepmother. The correspondents were particularly instructed to get expressions of opinion as to the sufficiency of the evidence introduced

SUNSHINE comes, no matter how dark the clouds are, when the woman who is borne down by woman's troubles turns to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If her life is made gloomy by the chronic weaknesses, delicate derangements, and painful disorders that afflict her sex, they are completely cured. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run-down," she has new life and strength.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic and a soothing and strengthening nervine, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. For every "female complaint" and disturbance, it is the only remedy so sure and unfailing that it can be If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your

The lawyers are almost unanimous in the opinion that the case of the Commonwealth is very weak; that there is not sufficient evidence to warrant a verdict against the prisoner, that no inating evidence is weak. Even the State's suposedly strongest theory of "exclusive opportunity" is held by most of the lawyers to have been shattered. One attorney in made out a strong case. A Buffalo judge also is convinced of her guilt. A lawyer in Washington believes the accused guilty, but could not vote for a conviction on the evidence presented, and in many cities there is an undercurrent of conviction of her guilt, but the testimony offered by the State would not justify a verdict against

Wednesday noon, however, two of Prier's sisters arrived at the prison and informed Deputy Warden John Howard that they could locate their brother and were anxious that he be returned so that he could serve out the remainder of his six months' sentence. The deputy, after having recovered from his amazement at the announcement. asked where Prier could be found. The sisters replied at their home. Accordingly a guard was sent to New Albany, and, on reaching Prier's home, he found him, after which he was placed in custody and returned. NEW YORK CLEARING HOUSE

Its Action in Deciding to Issue Loan Certificates Warmly Commended.

Chicago Bankers Scored by a Gothamite-Financial Views of Channey Depew-The Daily List of Failures.

New York, June 16 .- The clearing house loan committee met this morning, but did not issue any certificates. After the meeting members of the committee declined to give any information to reporters as to whether any applications had been received for loan certificates, or whetherany certificates had been issued. As a matter of fact, no certificates could be issued today, because there had not been time for the directors of any bank which might desire to take some to meet and authorize the necessary application to be made therefor. It is not known yet whether any bank desires to take out certificates. The loan committee, bowever, will meet again to-morrow. If any certificates are issued this week-that is, to-morrow-the published, but only the totals for all the banks. It is thought that the committee may decline to state the amount of certificates issued each day and content itself with giving the total amount weekly with the other totals of the bank statement.

The action of the Clearing House Association in deciding to issue loan certificates was warmly commended on every hand today, and it was conceded that the aunouncement had had a very beneficial effect. A member of the Clearing House Association, speaking of the matter, said: The result has, I think, fully justified the action, and I am glad to see that other cities are taking the same course. Chicago is, of course, a notable exception, and the dispatches from that city are somewhat amusing. For instance, we are told to-day that 'Chicago will not issue clearing house certificates; that there is no necessity for such a course, as Chicago is able to pay cash on demand.' That statement is very amusing to New York bankers, in view of the fact that Chicago has obtained all the money it could from this city during the last two weeks, and is still asking for more, Her declaration, therefore, of her ability to pay cash is somewhat amusing. The demands of Chicago for currency have been so great that one of our large banks has actually paid in the subtreasury last week $1,500,000 in gold in order to obtain the necessary currency for some of its Chicago correspondents, But here is a little incident that speaks for itself as to Chicago's ability to 'pay cash.' One of our small country customers who had kept an average balance with us of only $5,000 or $6,000, asked us for $20,000 in currency to help it in an emergency. We let the bank have the money, as it sent us good collateral, and we knew the bank was good. In a letter we received from it thanking us for the assistance rendered, the bank officers said: 'Our oldest Chicago correspondent is the --- bank. We applied to it for $25,000 of rediscount a few days since, and the bank answered that it was atterly impossible to render assistance. In view of the fact that during the past ten years it had not been called upon to belp us, save in one instance, and in view of the fact that the summer of 1892 our daily average balance was over $100,000, we feel that they ought to have taken care of us in the emergency.' That tells the tale of Chicago's condition. It also illustrates how New York, besides taking care of its home customers, has assisted the banks throughout the country.' There was a slight falling off in the shipments of currency to-day. It was estimated that the amount would fall a good deal short of $1,000,000. The demand for currency has had the effect of mereasing the amount of free gold in the treasury and the amount of such gold last night exceeded $92,000,000, which is a gain of more than $2,000,000 over last week. Of this sum $1,500,000 came from the National City Bank, which has been one of the largest shippers of currency to the West. The National City Bank has kept all its reserve in gold and was thus enabled to comply readily with the demands of its country correspondents, a fact upon which it prides itself. But for the fact that the treasury has had to pay out large sums for pensions it would have shown a large gain in legal tenders, a large amount of which were received from the banks for currency. Thus far the subtreasury has been enabled to meet pretty nearly all the demands for currency, but there is a scarcity of "ones," "twos" and "fives," and it has insisted on gold or legal tenders for these. For notes of other denominations it accepted treasury certificates as well as legal tenders. On one fact the banks and the subtreasury feel some consolotion in connection with the shipment of currency, and that is, that a great many silver certificates have been sent to the West, and "that is the proper place for them," said one bank officer.

Depew Discusses the Situation. CHICAGO, June 16 .- Chauncey M. Depew. who is in the city, said, in an interview, to-day: "Speaking of the financial condition, it is largely a matter of sentiment. If the people believe there is enough money in the country to do business on-there is enough; but if, on the other hand, they have an impression that there is not sufficient money, they withdraw their savings from the bank, lose their interest, which the banker game, and the next day, when they discover that the bank is safe, and the business world has not collapsed, they carry their savings back to the bank again. I believe that the financial stringency and scare are about over. Among the moneyed men in the East there is a unanimous feeling and desire for a special session of Congress, and that just as quickly as possible. National relief is needed to re-establish a feeling of security. As to the Sherman bill, there is a demand for its repeal, though the desire for its repeal is a matter of sentiment, and not based on any apparent necessity-at least, that is the way I look
